Introduction

"Programming is not a job, it's a passion, it's life."
He emphasized that programming is not merely a livelihood job, but also a deep passion and an important part of the lives of those who love it.
Perhaps I went through a difficult period after graduating from the University of Science because my knowledge was still limited, so I could not apply practical problems. But with my passion for programming and the desire to learn practical knowledge, I was motivated to join the Coding Bootcamp course at Codegym Hue Programming Training Center. I believe that with the knowledge and experience I have learned, I will complete the tasks entrusted to me by the company
